Slick Death

I stared long into the jaws of death
Stinking laundry damply hung its breath,
So I nailed that tooth upon the shore
That tooth I chewed beside my snore,
Ah sand that dangles in my shorts
Its clock tumbles and gashes in your snort!
My air held back my door was dripping
Could you refrain my crotch from gripping?
That stench so hellish my feet did glow
Upon the couch of coughing my grime did slow,
I thought of you your limbs like sausage
Sweating in the sun or rolling in the faucet,
I'm left here gasping on the beach or roof
Crazed with dimness, smearing grease on my hoof.
